MHTTC

Mental Health Technology Transfer Center Network
Funded by Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration

The purpose of the MHTTC Network is technology transfer - disseminating and implementing evidence-based practices for mental disorders into the field.

Funded by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), the MHTTC Network includes 10 Regional Centers, a National American Indian and Alaska Native Center, a National Hispanic and Latino Center, and a Network Coordinating Office.

Our collaborative network supports resource development and dissemination, training and technical assistance, and workforce development for the mental health field. We work with systems, organizations, and treatment practitioners involved in the delivery of mental health services to strengthen their capacity to deliver effective evidence-based practices to individuals. Our services cover the full continuum spanning mental illness prevention, treatment, and recovery support.

The MHTTC Network uses affirming, respectful and recovery-oriented language in all activities. That language is:

STRENGTHS-BASED AND HOPEFUL

INCLUSIVE AND ACCEPTING OF
DIVERSE CULTURES,
GENDERS,
PERSPECTIVES,

Black Youth Suicide: Exploring a Public Health Crisis and the Role of Racial Trauma

All webinars will be held from 12-1 EST

Objectives

1. Understand how the intersection between race and sexual/gender identity increases the risk of mental health concerns and suicide for Black LGBTQ+ youth.
2. Identify barriers that prevent Black LGBTQ+ youth from accessing care.
3. Identify at least 2 strategies to create change and/or support Black LGBTQ+ youth.

- STOP when you notice heightened emotions
 - Slow Down
 - Take some deep breaths
 - Observe what you are feeling in your body
 - Process and proceed

Social Determinants of Health

The conditions in the environments in which people are born, live, learn, work, play and age that impact a wide range of health, functioning and quality of life outcomes.

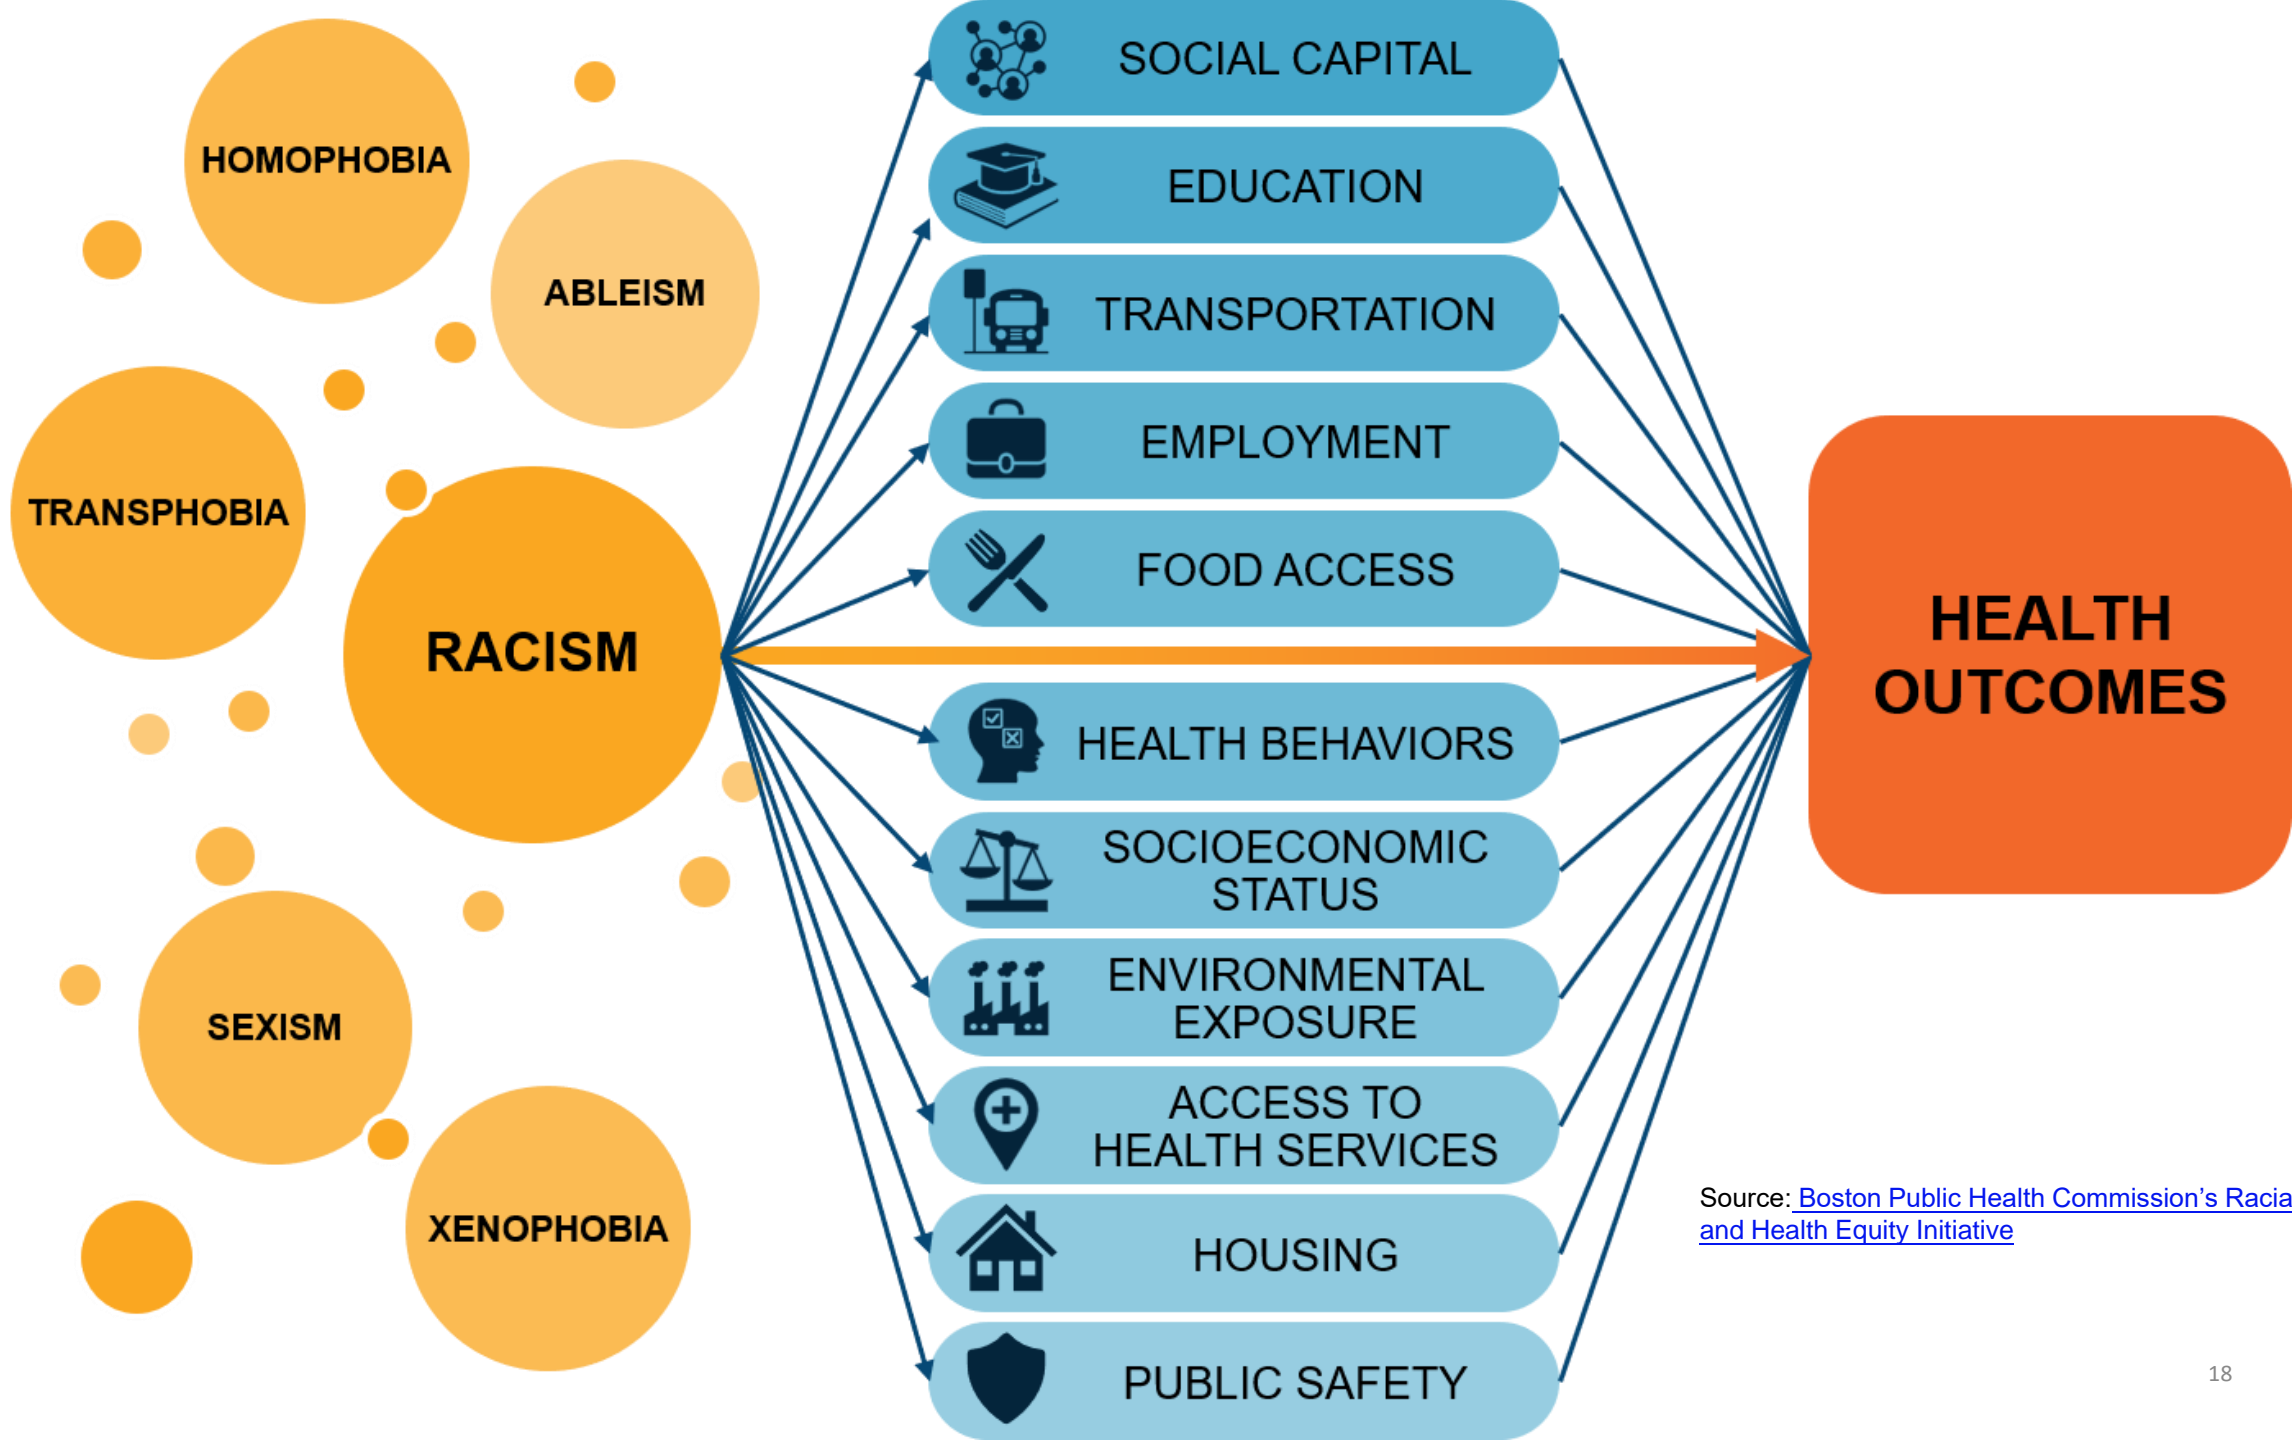

(Healthy People, 2020)

Social Influencers of Health and Education

- SIHE are rooted in the social determinants of health
- A child's health status and educational achievement are influenced by multiple factors, many of which are external to the individual
- Often experienced disproportionately by race and ethnicity and contribute to health inequities, learning disruptions, and opportunity gaps

HEALTH DISPARITIES

38% of Black LGBTQ adults feel that their medical providers are uncomfortable with their sexuality.

LGBTQ POC were twice as likely as whites to report experiencing physically rough or abusive treatment by medical professionals.

LGBTQ individuals who have disclosed their sexual orientation to their health providers are more likely white than African American or Latino.

The consequences of racialized homophobia in healthcare are that ethnic minority LGBTQ individuals have internalized stigma linked to their sexual orientation and may be more likely to engage in sexual risk behavior and less likely to talk openly about their sexual behavior with health care providers.

Mental Health Concerns for Black LGBTQ+ Youth

Mental Health Challenges Amongst Black LGBTQ+ Youth

- Although sexual and gender minority (SGM) adolescents and young adults (AYA) comprise 9% of the total U.S. AYA population, they account for 36% of suicide attempts, a percentage that increased from 2009 to 2017
 - Over this same period, Black AYA were the only AYA racial group for which suicide attempts increased.
- 44% of Black LGBTQ youth seriously considered suicide in the past 12 months, including 59% of Black transgender and nonbinary youth.
- 55% of Black LGBTQ youth reported symptoms of generalized anxiety disorder in the past two weeks, including 70% of Black transgender and nonbinary youth.

Mental Health Challenges Amongst Black LGBTQ+ Youth (cont.d)

- 63% of Black LGBTQ youth report symptoms of major depressive disorder including 71% of Black transgender and nonbinary youth.
- Self-harm was reported in 44% of Black LGBTQ youth, including 61% of Black transgender and nonbinary youth.
- 49% of Black LGBTQ youth reported wanting psychological or emotional counseling from a mental health professional in the past 12 months, but not being able to get it.

Intersectionality

Intersectionality

- Intersectionality is an analytic framework that addresses how interlocking systems of power impact those who are most marginalized in society.
- Taking an intersectional approach means looking beyond a person's individual identities and focusing on the points of intersection that their multiple identities create.
- The term was coined by black feminist and legal scholar Kimberlé Crenshaw to describe how individuals with multiple marginalized identities can experience multiple and unique forms of discrimination that cannot be conceptualized separately.

Black SGM Youth + Suicidal Risk

- Suicidality is inequitably pronounced among Black SGM AYAs for whom SI is over 44%, and SA is over 30%, compared to 19% and 8% in the general population, respectively
- Recent research suggests that Black SGM adolescents are at higher risk of suicide attempts than white SGM, Black heterosexual, and white heterosexual adolescents who do not face comparable intersectional stigma

Black SGM Youth + Suicidal Risk (cont.d)

- State-level racist and heterosexist policies were associated with interpersonal suicide risk factors, including perceived burdensomeness and thwarted belongingness, as well as STBs for Black sexual minority (SM) communities, but not white SM communities
- Emerging evidence suggests that these anti-SGM policies may be inequitably enforced in, and affect suicidality among, Black SGM communities

Barriers that Prevent Black LGBTQ+ Youth from Accessing Care

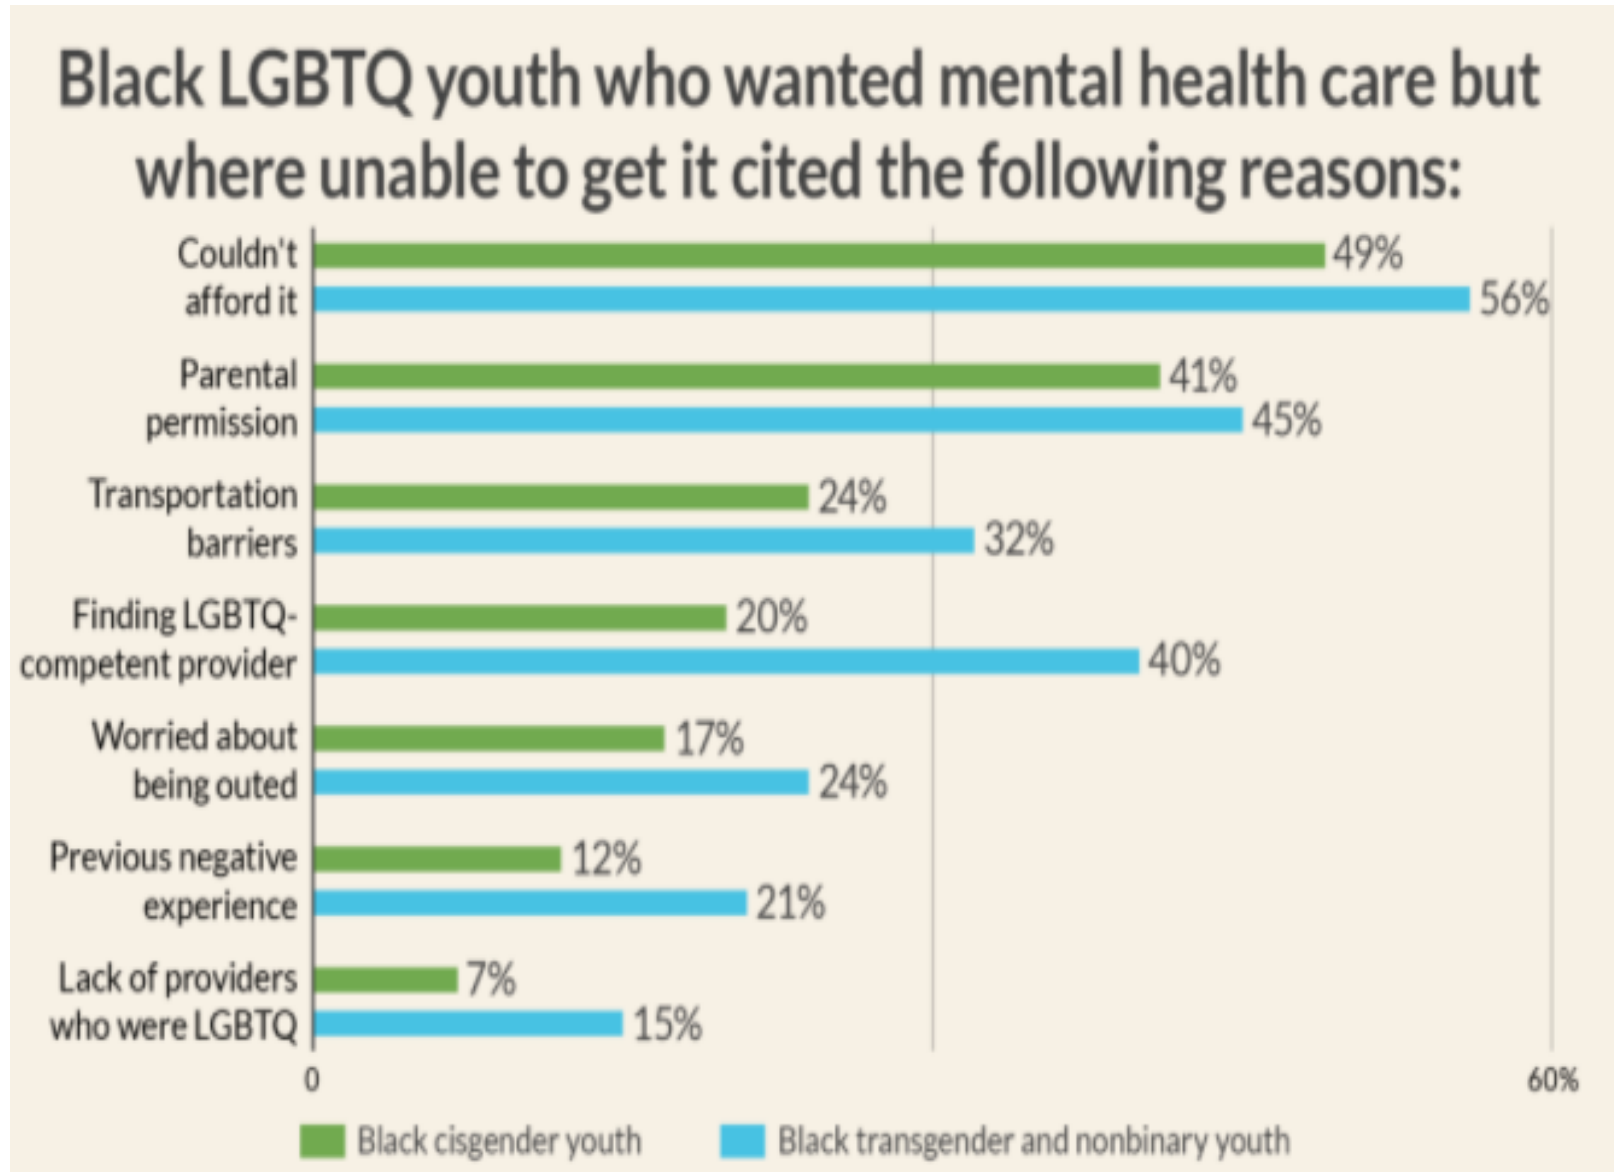

Barriers - Health Care

- LGBTQ+ POC were twice as likely as whites to report experiencing physically rough or abusive treatment by medical professionals.
- 38% of Black LGBTQ+ people feel that their medical providers are uncomfortable with their sexuality.
- White LGBTQ+ people are more likely to disclose their sexual orientation to their health providers than Black or Latino LGBTQ+ people.

Barriers – Mental Health Care

- Black LGBTQ+ youth receive mental health care less frequently than their white peers for several reasons rooted in stigma.
- Black LGBTQ+ youth and adults are less likely to receive culturally competent mental health treatment from providers.
 - In fact, only 10% of Black youth reported feeling comfortable discussing their LGBTQ+ concerns with a counselor because of the limited understanding that counselors may have regarding their intersecting identity experiences.
- Black LGBTQ+ youth encounter fewer self-identified safe spaces or LGBTQ+ affirming environments.
 - More than 51% of Black LGBTQ students feel unsafe at school because of their sexual orientation, 40.2% because of their gender expression and 30.6% because of their race or ethnicity.

Barriers To Care

Additional Barriers

- Black LGBTQ+ youth and adults experience greater structural discrimination and oppression, bullying, harassment, and violence.
- Black LGBTQ+ youth encounter public policies that lack discrimination protections.
 - Homelessness
 - Incarceration
 - Schools/Graduation rates
- Black LGBTQ+ youth and adults report less support from family, friends, and peers.

Importance of Family

77%

of Black and African American LGBTQ
youth have heard
family members say
negative things about LGBTQ people

“I have discussed my sexuality a bit with my family, but it is not quite a comfortable topic yet. Me coming out to my family was met with mixed reviews; they were accepting, but they also still feel like it’s just hormonal changes or something.”

CASE EXAMPLE

Scenario: Shantelle, a 17-year-old Black transgender female, became homeless at the age of 15, after her parents discovered her future plan of receiving hormone therapy. As a result of her homelessness, it was difficult for her to attend school and graduate on time with her classmates. While other youth who experienced financial hardships received support from staff and teachers, she noticed that most administrators and staff were reluctant to offer support or assistance in transportation to and from school and appeared less understanding of her circumstances, and at times blamed her for not living at home with her family. Shantelle recognized that she was struggling with depression and attempted to receive therapy at the youth homeless shelter where she lived. Shantelle eventually discontinued therapy services due to not feeling heard or seen by her therapist. She stated that she did not believe that her therapist understood or was willing to recognize her unique experience. Despite Shantelle's challenges, she is excited and passionate about graduating from high school and going to college and getting her degree in psychology.

Work together to review the scenario and identify and discuss the following:

1. What were the various barriers and challenges that Shantelle experienced that impacted her daily functioning and future goals?
2. Do you think Shantelle experienced discrimination and how so?
3. How do you think nondiscrimination laws could have protected Shantelle?
4. Discuss the likelihood of Shantelle seeking mental health support now or in the future?
5. How should we begin to help Shantelle?

Ways to Support Black LGBTQ+ Youth

Protective Factors

- 82% of Black LGBTQ youth reported at least one supportive person in their life.
- Black transgender and nonbinary youth who reported high family support had lower rates of attempted suicide.
- 82% of Black LGBTQ youth report access to at least one in-person LGBTQ-affirming space.
- Black youth who had access to at least one LGBTQ-affirming space attempted suicide at 50% lower rates compared to Black LGBTQ youth without access.

Community Agencies

How can you support?

- Provide education to your staff on the harmful effects that discrimination can have on Black LGBTQ+ people.
- Identify and follow through on consequences for discriminatory behavior.
- Policy makers, educators, and community members are encouraged to evaluate and reform policies and procedures.
- Clinicians in the community can help LGBTQ+ individuals process their experiences with discrimination, bullying, harassment, and violence.
- Create LGBTQ+ inclusive and affirmative environments.

Educators, Clinicians, & Family Members

How can you support?

- As educators and clinicians, it is important to provide psychoeducation to the community and family on the benefits of supporting Black LGBTQ+ people.
- As a parent it may be beneficial to attend family therapy with your family member who identifies as LGBTQ+, to better understand their unique experiences.
- Parents and family members could also support their family member who identifies as LGBTQ+ by learning more about their experiences and the LGBTQ+ community and attending events specific to this population.

Shifting Mental Health Field

Decrease barriers to mental health care access (e.g., school-based mental health services, cost)

Develop a pipeline to diversify the field and actively recruit and retain mental health providers of intersecting identities

Receive regular continuing education training and information on the intersection between race and racism and anti-LGBTQ+ attitudes while reflecting on one's own biases

Clinicians can identify and create additional mental health services and resources (e.g., groups and mental health referrals) that are culturally appropriate for this population

Graduate programs should provide additional trainings on this specific population to increase cultural competence for providers who encounter Black LGBTQ+ youth in mental health treatment facilities

Policy Makers & Legal Representatives

How can you support?

- LGBTQ nondiscrimination protections should be comprehensive and inclusive in order to ensure equal opportunity in the daily lives of all LGBTQ people.
- It is vital that the text of nondiscrimination laws explicitly include protections based on sexual orientation, gender identity, and gender expression.
- Employment protections are a vital component of any statewide nondiscrimination law.
