WORKING AT THE INTERSECTION OF INTIMATE PARTNER VIOLENCE AND MENTAL HEALTH

► 10am PT / 11am MT / 12pm CT / 1pm ET ◀

Intimate partner violence is prevalent among people accessing mental health services, but often goes unnoticed or unaddressed when mental health providers are unaware or unsure of how to help.

This series will introduce key issues at the intersection of intimate partner violence and mental health, and prepare mental health providers to better respond to the needs of individuals and families affected by intimate partner violence. The lack of collaboration and cross-training among providers often leaves survivors and their families without ways to address both safety and recovery needs.

Recordings of the presentations and additional resources will be posted online. Certificates of completion are available for each session for those who attend at least 30 minutes.
