On September 20, co-authors Stephanie Holm, Mark Miller, and John Balmes released their white paper entitled “Health effects of wildfire smoke in children and public health tools: a narrative review” in the Journal of Exposure Science and Environmental Epidemiology. The white paper is a review of the literature on the topics relevant to the children’s health and wildfires workgroups. You can access the white paper here: https://www.nature.com/articles/s41370-020-00267-4.

NCTSN’s compiled resources to help navigate trauma and wildfire: Wildfire Resources. Their resources and tips are easy to navigate for Before, During, and After a wildfire experience.
