MHTTC School Mental Health Best Practices Always and Now 8-Part Learning Series

Access the recordings and resources from the series!

Presented by the MHTTC Network and National Center for School Mental Health

Purpose:

The MHTTC Network hosted an 8-part learning series framed by National School Mental Health Best Practices: Implementation Guidance Modules for States, Districts, and Schools. This resource, developed by the MHTTC Network in partnership with the National Center for School Mental Health (NCSMH), aims to help states, districts and schools advance comprehensive school mental health and engage in a planning process for implementation.

To learn more about the FREE National School Mental Health Best Practices: Implementation Guidance Modules (formerly known as the National School Mental Health Curriculum) and access the COMPLETE resource, visit our website.

About the Series:

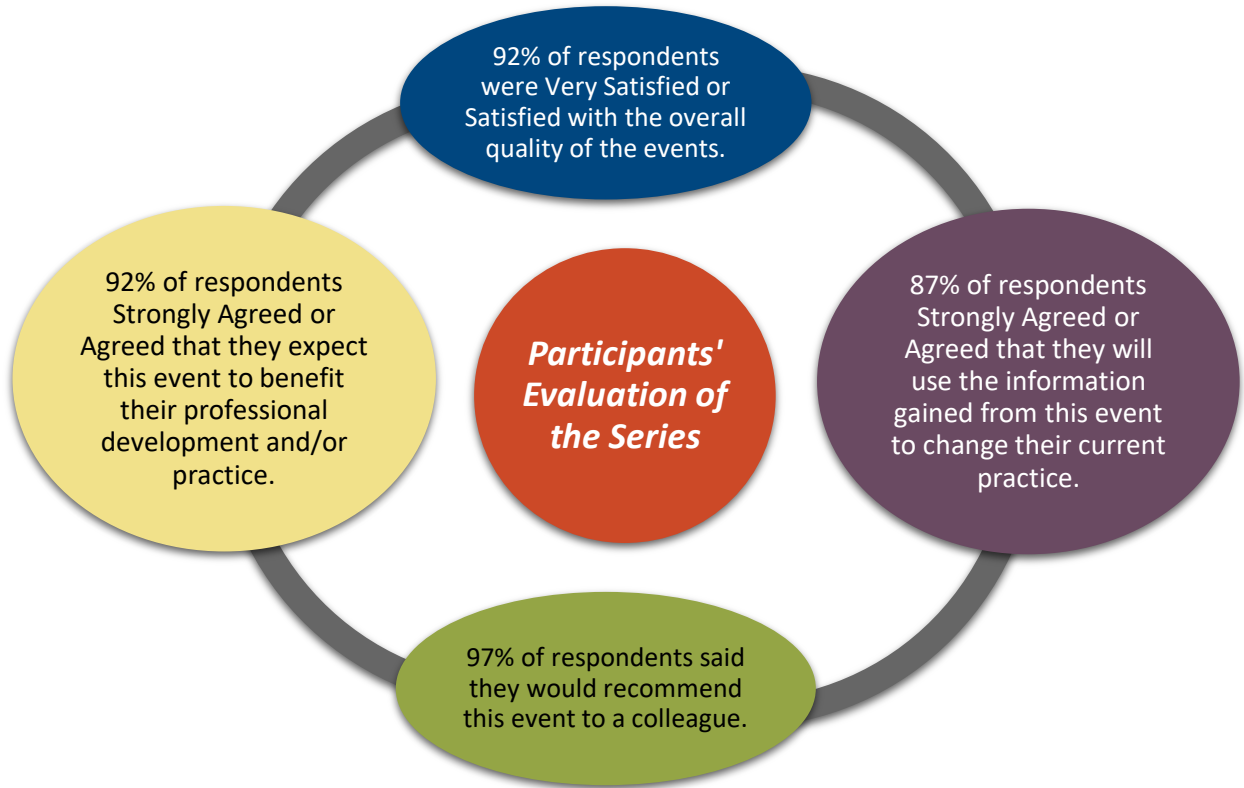

- Each of the 8 sessions included a pre-session video, live panel discussion, and post-session regional breakout.
- The pre-session videos familiarized participants with each module.
- In the live panel discussions, education and mental health leaders from across the country provided an “always and now” application of the module and innovative ideas for implementation, considering the current pandemic and its impact on school mental health.
- In the regional breakouts, participants discussed content from the panel, contextualized for their region/state.

Session recordings and additional resources, including pre-session videos and FAQ documents, are available on the MHTTC website (see link below).

Impact of the Series

“We've been able to actually start putting together a team to do the work with some direction on how to go about it.

It allowed us to present a PD plan to our administrators that was solidly based on research-validated best practices, supporting an integrated complete MH plan for our district.

It helped me focus on my district's specific implementation challenges.

The fact that I regularly consult the materials in order to make sure I choose the correct skills to use with my clients. This gives me more confidence in my work.”
