

What it Means to Become a Certified Community Behavioral Health Clinic (CCBHC)

Tuesday, March 2, 2021
12:00 - 1:00 PM ET

REGISTER HERE

About the Event

CCBHCs are designed to increase access to mental health and substance use disorder treatment, expand states' capacity to address the overdose crisis, promote partnerships with law enforcement, schools and hospitals to improve care, reduce recidivism and prevent hospital readmissions.

Today, 340 CCBHCs are operating in 40 states, plus Washington, D.C. and Guam. Congress has expanded the demonstration and authorized grants to support the model. A growing number of states are moving to implement the model independently via a state plan amendment or Medicaid waiver.

What opportunities do states and clinics have to move toward CCBHC adoption, and what does it take to be successful? Join us on Wednesday, March 2 at 12:00 PM (ET) to explore the CCBHC model and lessons learned from other states and clinics.

About the Presenters

Rebecca Farley David is Senior Director of Public Policy and Special Initiatives at the National Council for Behavioral Health. She has worked to advance and support the CCBHC model for more than 10 years, from introduction of the original authorizing legislation through implementation of the demonstration and expansion grants. She currently oversees the National Council's CCBHC Success Center.

Jonathan Brown is a Senior Fellow and Director of Behavioral Health at Mathematica where his work focuses on improving the quality and outcomes of behavioral health services. He directs an ongoing national evaluation of the CCBHC demonstration for the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation and recently completed a national evaluation of the Primary and Behavioral Health Care Integration program for SAMHSA.

