

THE ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SCHOOL EMERGENCY RELIEF (ESSER) FUNDS AND SCHOOL MENTAL HEALTH IN THE SOUTHEAST August 2022

This report summarizes how states in the Southeast region of the U.S. are using or instructing local education authorities (LEAs) to use the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER) funds approved by Congress to support student mental health. The first section (page 2) of the report summarizes relevant federal guidance.

The second section (pages 3-5) presents state-specific plans or guidance to LEAs about using ESSER to fund student mental health services and supports, including state guidance that reflected federal guidance (without modification).

This report is prepared with support under cooperative agreement SM081774 from the Department of Health and Human Services, Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration.

Federal Guidance on Using the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER) Funds to Support Student Mental Health (MH)

Between 2020 and 2021, Congress allocated nearly $190.5 billion to ESSER through the three federal COVID-19 relief bills. The purpose of ESSER is to support states to help LEAs respond to students' challenges under the COVID-19 pandemic, including but not limited to MH challenges. All three waves of ESSER allowed the use of funds to provide MH services and supports.

- ESSER I (allocated through the 2020 CARES act): Allows the use of the fund to provide MH services and supports to students and staff.
- ESSER II (allocated through the 2021 CRRSA act): Allows the use of the fund to provide MH services and supports to students and staff (guidance aligned with ESSER I).
- ESSER III (allocated through the 2021 ARP act): Allows the use of the fund to provide MH services and supports to students and staff, including through the implementation of evidence-based full-service community schools*.

In May 2021, the federal department of education clarified that states and LEAs may use all three waves of ESSER funds to hire providers of MH services and supports.

* Full-service community schools: The US Department of Education defines full-service community schools as schools that provide "comprehensive academic, social, and health services for students, students' families, and community members that will result in improved educational outcomes." These services may include nutrition services and physical activities for students, and family literacy and parent education programs.
